The Owensboro Messenger thinks Auditor Fayette Hewitt ought to be the next Governor.

The State Horticultural Society will meet in Elizabethtown the second Tuesday in December.

A Louisville lumber company is said to be negotiating the purchase of 22,000 acres of land in Rowan—about one-fourth of the entire county.

The "editor and sole owner" of the "wind-jammer" and "hired man" is still at his desk with a new steel pen and a fresh bottle of ink within easy reach.

CALLS have been made upon ten different persons in Anderson County to make the race for the Legislature. Imagine the awful suffering of the "dear voters" down there, if you can.

A crop of tobacco was grown in Fleming County the past season, the leaves of which were forty-eight and one-half inches long. That's what one of our exchanges says, but we don't always believe what we see in their columns.

The late William Ringo, of Newport, showed his eccentricity by bequeathing $250,000 to his six "adopted" children and making his housekeeper executrix without bond. A contest by the legitimate heirs will, of course, follow, and there will be rich pickings for the lawyers.

TRASK, TRASK & Jeff Davis opposes the Blair Educational bill, and the New York Herald has the audacity to editorially quote and approve him. This calls for stern rebuke. That Treasury surplus must be got rid of somehow. Why not use it to buy hoop-skirts for every body?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AMONG the papers placed in the box of the Republican Enterprise last Saturday was one addressed to the Christian Journal. Who says Postmaster isn't a gentleman of superior judgment?—Republican Enterprise.

Oh, my! Nobody doubts the superior judgment of our worthy Postmaster, but all are liable to err. The above is the first mistake we've heard of his making. Now, Brother Davis, you surely don't intend to make such pretensions as one might infer from the above?

It seems to be the one opinion at Washington that some legislation is demanded of Congress to stop the locking-up of money in the U. S. Treasury. Of $1,000,000 revenue paid the Government monthly, only about one-half is needed for all expenses. The rest goes to the already enormous surplus now in the Treasury vaults. A revision and reduction of the present high tariff, is the Democratic medicine that will cure this great evil.

The notorious "Jim Cummings" has written another letter in regard to the big express robbery. This time the communication was sent to the Moberly (Mo.) Herald. He describes himself in this letter and says he is having a good time, and is still in possession of the greater part of the stolen money, notwithstanding the ceaseless efforts of the detectives to ferret him out. He dates the communication at Omaha, but it was mailed at Council Bluffs. The handwriting and the personal description correspond with that of a slick individual who is said to have evaded several citizens of Moberly at a fair a few months ago.

THE BULLETIN says Mr. Powderly is for a high tariff. And it says the Mr. Powderly says that Mr. Blaine is "the greatest fraud on earth." Now as both these distinguished gentlemen stand on the same platform, will the "wind-jammer" please reconcile these statements?—Republican Enterprise.

Easy enough. Aren't you aware that Mr. Blaine can be for high tariff and at the same time be "the greatest fraud on earth"? We know of some great big "frauds" who are fighting for high tariff. Although both stand on the same platform, that couldn't necessarily prevent Mr. Powderly from making the statement referred to. Powderly evidently knows a genuine fraud when he sees him.

This tutor of the Enterprise is everlastingly making an effort to say something "cute and smart" at the expense of some one else, and we might add that he everlastingly makes a miserable failure. Hear him:

"An exchange says President Cleveland is under treatment by a Swedish doctor to reduce his flesh. Our adviser at Uncle Grover is to come out here and run for Congress. Just look at Frank Powers and Judge Wall."

What a bright and facetious suggestion! But if Mr. Davis wishes to convey the idea in the above that the race for Congress caused Frank Powers and Judge Wall to lose any flesh, then his readers who are acquainted with the parties know he is about one thousand miles away from the truth. Alas, for Brother Davis!

AFRAID TO TACKLE BURGLARS.

Sixteen Armed Men Washing a Hole in a Grocery Store Door.

RAMEY, N. J., Dec. 1.—The residents of this quiet little village and its suburbs have been considerably disturbed of late by the visits of a gang of burglars that were bold but always defied detection. The store of George Ryerson & Son, had been entered several times, and the burglar alarm was attached to the premises, the wires extending to the home of the proprietor. At 9 o'clock this morning Ryerson was aroused from his bed by the sudden clamor of the alarm, and he hastily dressed himself. He hesitated about visiting his store alone, so he aroused his neighbors until sixteen good men and true stood before him armed to the teeth.

At the store they found that one of the panels of the door had been driven in, but the hole was small one. The party, in ignorance of the number of burglars and of their fighting condition, concluded not to enter the store but await results. Soon a head protruded from the broken panel, as if to review the situation, when being warned one of the guns of the villagers, and the head was instantly withdrawn and the lights went out inside the store. Neither party made advances until a demand was made to surrender. Three desperate looking fellows were found inside, one armed with a revolver, and in a barrel of rice were two heavy bull dog revolvers, every barrel loaded. The burglars had first forced the depot of the Erie railroad and stolen a pick with which the panel of the store door had been destroyed. They showed a small boy through the hole, who opened the rear door of the store, and in a few minutes the burglar alarm was raised. Three watches belonging to the Messrs. Ryerson were found upon the prisoners. They were taken to Hackensack and committed.

English vs. American Iron Works.

There is no sentiment in business. We should prefer to do business with you, but you must not ask us to take badly finished, old fashioned goods, which, no matter how well they satisfy our fathers, will not do for us. Would you be surprised to hear that no carpenter in New Zealand will use from clove an English hammer, saw, brace or auger bit? No buggy builder will use English coach bolts or iron bolts if American ones can be had even at 10 per cent. more money than the English, because he can pick up the Yankee bolt and apply it immediately to his work, and with his nice square cut thread there is less chance of nuts coming loose. Will it be the case with the English bolt? He will look a gross over and find every nut "jammed" so hard on the bolt that it will have to be taken to the vice and time is money he can't be blamed for preferring the Yankee article.—New Zealand Cor. London Ironmongers.

The Dictum of the Dancing Masters.

The dancing masters of the country who met in New York adopted these new dances two "round dances," to be called the "American Gavotte" and the "Columbia" respectively, and one square dance, the "Octagon." The "American Gavotte" will be danced to gaiter or 4-4 time, is very easy to learn, is smoother than the ordinary dances, steady sideways, then a turn and a bow and polka, and a side afterwards and is slower than a waltz. The "Columbia" will be danced to the "American Gavotte," and comprehends several varieties of hops. In the "Octagon" eight couples dance at once and all the couples are in motion at the same time, except in one movement. It may be danced in any numbers more than two, and is a waltzing. The music is in 6-8 time. The dance is similar to the lancers in movement and figures, but differs from it in couples passing under each other's raised arms.—Detroit Free Press.

Americaniets at Delmonico's.

I really saw two of these Americaniets met in Delmonico's cafe the other night. They were in evening clothes, with light topcoats whiching down two limp arms. They surveyed each other's toilets with interest and admiration, each intent upon finding some flaw in the other's get up. At last a faint smile of triumph played over one vagrant face as he bent toward the other and said, and I heard the whisper: "Beg pardon, old man, but the last of the lot of your waistcoat is unbuttoned."—Cor. New York Star.

The Ohio Canals.

AKRON, O., Dec. 1.—Members of the state board of public works arrived here with their engineer in view to instituting suits for recovery of state lands along the canals occupied by private parties, one manufacturing company, it is said, having part of a new building on state property. It is likely that the legislature will be asked for an appropriation for a complete survey of canal lands, the statement being made by a state official that in many places private parties have been encroaching on them for years.

Sent Up for Eight Years.

GRINER, Utah, Dec. 1.—Charles Penta, alias Charles W. Brown, a noted thief, residing in Urbana, O., who has been very successful in his profession, and has kept out of the clutches of the law in many western states for a number of years, has at last come to grief in this case. He was arrested by a special officer of the Southern Pacific company for robbing a passenger on the train between here and Terrance. He was convicted yesterday and sentenced to a term of eight years in the territorial penitentiary.

Seriously Hurt By a Fall.

ALLIANCE, O., Dec. 1.—John Crowl, white, engaged in roofing a new building for the Morgan Express company at this place, lost his footing and fell to the ground, slighting on a pile of lumber and breaking his head and several ribs, and had his arm almost torn from his face. It is thought he will recover.
